INTERNATIONAL FOUNDATION PROGRAM

2024-25

EMPOWER YOUR FUTURE

Established in 1827, the University of Toronto is one of the oldest and most internationally recognized universities in North America. With an annual enrollment of over 97,000 students, including more than 27,000 international students, the University of Toronto is Canada's largest educational institution and continues to be the nation's leader in higher learning and research.

The University of Toronto's St. George campus, located in the heart of downtown Toronto, is the largest and most urban among its three campuses. Since 1827, the historic St. George campus has developed a tradition of academic excellence and achievement and has driven the University's aspiration to continue graduating leaders who will make significant contributions to the world.

U of T is a world-renowned university in a celebrated city where knowledge meets achievement, history meets the future, and ambition meets inspiration. U of T has been rated top in Canada and 18th in the world by the 2023 Times Higher Education World University Rankings.

INTERNATIONAL FOUNDATION PROGRAM

The International Foundation Program (IFP) is a unique offering that combines conditional acceptance to the University of Toronto with intensive English language and skills development instruction, combined with for-credit courses. The IFP is available to academically qualified international students whose English proficiency scores do not meet the University of Toronto's direct entrance requirements. Successful completion of the IFP guarantees admission to the Faculty of Arts & Science, the Faculty of Architecture, Landscape & Design, or the Faculty of Music.

IFP ACADEMICS

Designed for international students who need to improve their language proficiency, adapt to academic conventions, and raise their awareness of cultural differences before undertaking the rigours of a full-time undergraduate degree, the IFP develops skills in genuine higher education contexts.

Detailed course descriptions are available at InternationalPrograms.utoronto.ca/IFP

Conditional Acceptance

Applicants that are admitted into the International Foundation Program are University of Toronto undergraduate students. However, the students must successfully complete all courses, including the degree credit-course; the discipline-specific course; and the language and academic development courses in order to meet the conditions of their offer. Throughout the IFP, continual assessment raises student awareness of their standing and provides opportunities to improve their performance. Those who do not successfully complete all courses will have their admission offers to the university withdrawn.

Degree Course

During the IFP, students take a combination of the courses listed to earn one full credit towards their undergraduate degree.

Discipline-specific Courses

IFP students take discipline-specific courses which correspond to their admission stream. These courses, taught by instructors from specific departments, introduce the necessary vocabulary, assignment types, and evaluations used in their area of study.

Language & Academic Skills Development Courses

Using readings, lecture content, assignments, and requirements from both their degree course and sources relevant to the topic areas, students learn how to interpret information presented through a variety of written and oral mediums; construct arguments supported by evidence; and present ideas in small group and tutorial environments.

Student Life

There's more to the university experience than just academics. The campus experience is one full of opportunities, connections, and friendships. Students come together to build their own communities and help each other thrive.

IFP students live in the safe and secure New College residence on the University of Toronto's downtown campus, where they will be side-by-side with first and upper-year students.

New College encourages an incredibly active community that is always seeking new and innovative opportunities to reach out and get students involved. Students will be fully immersed in the university community, have full access to the university resources, get involved, and gain valuable teamwork and leadership skills while living in downtown Toronto.

Academic Requirements

The International Foundation Program (IFP) is available at the St. George campus for the Faculty of Arts & Science, the John H. Daniels Faculty of Architecture, Landscape & Design, and the Faculty of Music.

Academic requirements for the IFP are identical to those for direct-entry admission to the University of Toronto. The only difference between IFP admission and direct-entry admission is that the English proficiency requirements are lower for IFP applicants. Prerequisite courses will be included in the admission average. The University of Toronto reserves the right to give preference to students whose marks are the result of a single attempt at each course.

English Proficiency Requirements

To be accepted into the Fall/Winter IFP, students’ English proficiency test scores should fall into one of the IFP Admission Ranges listed below.
